Second Century Update

Innovation Projects

Earlier this summer, the Academy Board of Directors approved three Innovation Projects to move forward into the next phase of development, which includes the creation of detailed business plans and high level concept notes. The three projects moving forward are:

- Lifestyle First: This project strives to create a future where nutrition and lifestyle interventions are universally prioritized and credentialed food and nutrition practitioners are independent health care providers for the delivery of these prevention and treatment services.
- Nutrition in Population Health: This program's goal is to transform our health system by emphasizing the fundamental prevention strategies of food, nutrition and lifestyle through projects supported by grants.

- Global Nutrition Collaborative: This international initiative will accelerate progress in improving health by building a global coalition of credentialed food and nutrition practitioners, dietetic associations, and global food, nutrition, and health organizations.

More details about the projects will be unveiled later this fall. Any members interested in learning more or contributing to Second Century efforts, including the projects, are welcome to reach out to the Second Century staff.
